DIAMOND HORACE IS UNDER ARREST

Robinson Rolled High While In Honolulu Town

NEW YORK, May 1. — Horace Greeley Robinson, banker and seller of wireless telegraph stock, was arrested here tonight on a warrant from San Jose, Cal., for obtaining money under false pretenses, the complainant being H. S. Beck of that city, who charges that Robinson obtained $800 from him on account of Marconi wireless stock. Robinson, who has been traveling all over the world, has made it a practice to collect money from persons whom he induced to buy shares. He gave them receipts instead of stock. He admits he has collected a large sum for wireless stock alone. He has other enterprises.

Robinson arrived here via Egypt, India and Europe last March. The warrant from San Jose reached here April 4th and detectives have been looking for him since. They caught him tonight in his apartments. With him was a woman who has been traveling with him since he left New York. His wife has a residence of her own here. His father, Louis Robinson, got into financial trouble here last year and was arrested. Certificates of stock sold by the Robinsons and paid for were never delivered by Robinson, the latter's authority to sell them being denied. Persons all over the world complain of being swindled.

The Robinson mentioned in this dispatch made things fly here in Honolulu not so many years ago. He posed as a great South African diamond mine owner or something of the sort, and lived in great luxury at the Moana. He had a love for cards, and there is a story of a historic game in which Prince Bert Peterson bet $500 and Robinson raised him to $1,000. The end of it all was that Robinson presented Prince Bert with a fine span of blacks as a token of his appreciation and regard. Robinson also had an experience at C. A. Brown's country place. He was nearly drowned and Brown pulled him out of the swimming pool as he was going down the last time.

BOOK WORLD NOTES

THE AGRICOLA OF TACITUS.

The Macmillan Company. An addition to the Macmillan series of Latin Classics made this week is the Agricola of Tacitus, edited by Professor Duane Reed Stuart of Princeton University. "The learned note," the editor hopes, "will be conspicuous by its absence," and everything possible has been done to make the work of the great historian attractive to all who wish to learn to know him in the original Latin. The place of Tacitus as a writer of history is, of course, beyond dispute. Of all historians, however, it is probable that he has the most in translation. This compact, convenient and eminently useful edition will, therefore, be welcomed by every reader of Latin.

A CERTAIN RICH MAN—WHITE.

The Macmillan Company. William Allen White, the celebrated Kansas journalist and one of the editors of the American Magazine, has ventured into a field new to him. His first novel is to be published this month by the Macmillan Company under the title, "A Certain Rich Man." In addition to the fame won by his editorial work, Mr. White enjoys a high reputation as a writer of short stories; hitherto, however, he has published nothing longer. Anything from the pen that wrote "What's the Matter With Kansas?" is certain to be read eagerly, but in this case there is the additional interest that attaches to a new phase of a distinguished writer's art.

PEACE AND HAPPINESS—AVEBURY.

The Macmillan Company. A striking tribute to the breadth and charm of Lord Avebury's mind is the praise accorded his new book, "Peace and Happiness," by a writer in The Ecclesiastical Review. "A temperate, healthy, beautiful book, one that every intelligent man and woman will be the better and the happier for having read," the reviewer call it. The significance of his praise he fully realizes, for he begins his review with these sentences:

"A Catholic reviewer has seldom the pleasant experience of agreeing so fully with an author differing from him in religious belief. This confidence is the more gratifying, though not the less singular, when it is noted that the book in question deals with a subject that affects the deepest and fullest nature of man, one therefore in which religion would seem to demand much consideration and hence be likely to occasion divergence of judgment." Naturally The Ecclesiastical Review cannot agree with every statement made by the Protestant Lord Avebury; the noteworthy thing is its hearty acceptance of the book as a whole. Without encroaching upon the field of religion, Lord Avebury has placed the rich storehouse of his learning at the disposal of all who wish to derive from their human lives rational enjoyment.

HILO CRICKETERS WIN MATCH AGAINST ACTORS.

Cricket has caught on in Hilo, and the rainy city had a match the other day to themselves. It was the first game ever played there, from all accounts, and a great curiosity was shown by everyone as to the way the game was played.

Pollard's Company and the Hilo bunch tried conclusions, and after a game remarkable for its swiftness the Hilo team won by a score of 61 to 19. The result was wirelessly to Mr. Harrison this morning, and he at once brought it around to the Bulletin office. Considering that the Pollards put up such a good game against the Honolulu team, the Hilo tea must be congratulated on defeating the actors so easily. Now is the time for the local players to get a move on, and to send a challenge to the big island team. An interisland cricket match should draw like fire, and no doubt now that they have started the game in Hilo it will boom as everything does in that thriving town.

DIX IS BURNING.

This would mean a saving of time, and would also mean that a large part of the money which the soldiers now spend at Nagasaki would divert to Honolulu.

There is practically an endless supply of coal in the Bataan deposits, and furthermore, the coal-bearing lands belong to the United States Government. Thus the saving that would accrue from the use of Philippine coal by the transports would be no inconsiderable pecuniary item, in addition to the convenience of being able to send ships west without having to dispatch them to Japan for a coal supply.

Another advantageous feature pointed out in connection with the development of the Philippine coal beds, is that they make the United States absolutely independent of any foreign power, and, in case of war, neutrality laws would not interfere with American troop ships, or men-of-war, coaling for the western cruise.

The Dix is now unloading a quantity of the Bataan coal for the use of the Sheridan on her eastward trip.

It is probable that within a few days there will be made a move in the matter of arranging a series of baseball games in the Big League. Several gentlemen are interesting themselves in the matter, and Messrs. C. J. Falk, H. Whitney and C. G. Bockus are the moving spirits in the scheme. This is real good news to the fans, and it is to be hoped that the schedule will be arranged very soon. There are a lot of details to be arranged, and as soon as something definite is known the whole program will be published.

EVERY SALOON TO HAVE ITS PICTURE GALLERY IN BOSTON

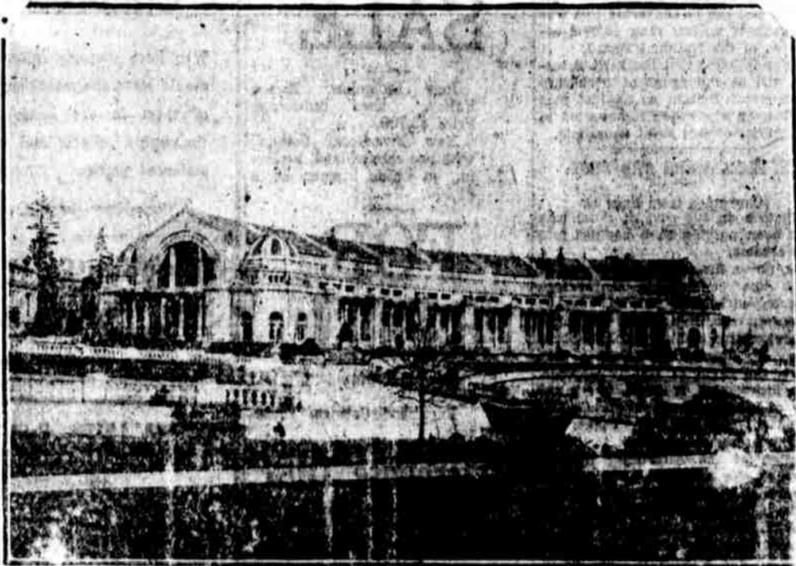

BOSTON, April 24.—Every Massachusetts saloon will soon have its drinkers' portrait gallery containing the photographs of those to whom liquor may no longer be sold. The House has passed to be engrossed the bill to provide for this system of dealing with habitual drunkards. The bill provides that when a person has reached the stage of habitual drunkenness a notification that he can no longer buy liquor must be accompanied by a picture or some other sufficient means of identification. There was a lively fight over the bill, but it was finally passed by 85 to 48 votes.

The Kewalo Athletic Club baseball team, which won the Mayor's cup, is going to celebrate the victory by giving a dance in the Lusitania Hall next Monday evening. The cup will be on exhibition at the hall and the story of how it was won will be told and retold by the members of the team.

MANUFACTURERS BUILDING, ALASKA-YUKON-PACIFIC EXPOSITION.
On the eastern side of "Glasgow" in at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition the handsome Manufacturers building holds a most interesting display of the products and the bustling foam of "Old Faithful," the reproduction of its miniature in a five-story National Park. Its location is the most central of any of the exhibition buildings, and its architectural design is a masterpiece of the modern style. It was one of the first great buildings to be completed, and in the fall of 1908 year was ready for the reception of its vast crowd of exhibits from the workshops of the world. It overlooks the finest of the gardens of the exposition, and its pergola, with their vine covered columns and blossoming vines, complete a restful and pleasing view.
